

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING (MoU)

pertaining to the provision of personnel and training

PARTIES:

RedR Australia Limited of 55-61 Barry Street, Carlton, Victoria 3053, Australia ("RedR"); and
The Indian Ocean Commission of Blue Tower, 3rd Floor, Institute Avenue, 72201 – Ebene, Mauritius ("IOC")

BACKGROUND:

- A. RedR is a leading international humanitarian agency that selects, trains and deploys technical specialists. RedR is a Standby Partner to 15 United Nations agencies, ASEAN AHA Centre, IPPF, ADPC, PDF, Secretariat of Pacific Countries (SPC), a number of Pacific Islands NDMOs and other front-line relief agencies and governments across Asia and the Pacific Islands. RedR implements the Australia Assists program funded by the Australian Government which aims to save lives and alleviate suffering by building resilience and responding to disasters and conflict.
- B. The IOC was created following the conference of Port-Louis (Mauritius) in 1982 and by the Regional Cooperation Agreement of Victoria in 1984; today it includes five member states: Comoros, France (through La Réunion), Madagascar, Mauritius and Seychelles. The Indian Ocean is the region constituted by the addition of the geographical outline of the five Member States, all located in the south-western region of the Indian Ocean, taking for France the area of Reunion.

Since its creation, the missions of the IOC have been political and regional cooperation, gradually developing actions in many areas, ranging from political and diplomatic action to the insertion of the region in the global economy, through the preservation of the environment (especially marine and coastal). The IOC has also been involved in the protection of populations (civil security, children's rights, public health) and cultural, academic and research cooperation. In 2005, the Summit of Heads of State and Government adopted new strategic orientations providing the framework for actions for the collective development of the region and allowing to better define the role of the IOC in a changing regional and global context. Four axis were retained:

Axis 1: Political and diplomatic cooperation;
 Axis 2: Economic and commercial cooperation;
 Axis 3: Sustainable regional development, and;
 Axis 4: Strengthening regional cultural identity.

The axis are broken down into five areas of intervention and the third axis includes all issues related to sustainable development in terms of environment, biodiversity, climate change, disaster risk reduction and sustainable tourism. This strategic direction was reinforced by the adoption of a "Declaration" by the IOC Heads of State and Government at the 2014 Summit.

In order to facilitate its operations, IOC has developed its subsequent Strategic Action plans whereby climate change and resilience is a key component of the Action Plan.

The overall mission of the IOC is to implement a strengthened functional cooperation and support actions for the regional integration of its Member States, and the development of their collective intra and extra-regional actions. Finally, and more generally, its mission is to promote their interests and those of their populations, their private sector, and other non-state actors, with a view to fostering sustainable development in a stable and secure Indian Ocean.

The IOC intervenes, in strict respect of the sovereignty of the Member States, where its regional action presents a strong added value, in complement to national actions and/or initiatives taken by larger regional organizations as well as by continental and multilateral institutions.

Overview

Requesting Organisation Overview (circa 300 words max.)

The Indian Ocean Commission (IOC) is an intergovernmental organisation established in 1984 by virtue of the General Agreement for Cooperation known as the "Accord de Victoria". The Member States are composed of the Union of Comoros, France on behalf of Réunion island, the Republics of Madagascar, Mauritius, and Seychelles. The decisional Governing body of the IOC is the Council of Ministers, which meets on a yearly basis. The areas of cooperation and mandate of the IOC cover a large scope of thematic areas, and its operation is structured under four strategic guidelines pertaining to:

1. Diplomacy, peace, and stability, promoting a culture of dialogue for peace and maritime safety and security.
2. Sustainable economic development and growth focusing on a conducive environment for blue and green growth.
3. Environment and climate change, striving for resilient building and sustainable management and use of natural resources.
4. Human development and regional identity aiming at strengthening societies for growth and development.

The development projects implemented by the IOC are financed by different partners, namely: the "Agence Francaise de Development and Fond Français pour l'environnement "; the European Union; the World Bank; the Green Climate Fund. Under some thematic areas, the activities are supported as well by the observer countries and institutions of the IOC. Partnership and collaboration with specialised agencies of the United Nations are also encouraged.

Deployment Role

Role Overview (circa 300 words max.)

In line with the strategic guidelines, the IOC Council of Ministers adopted, in 2013 a regional Strategy for adaptation to climate change, and in 2019 an integrated climate change and disaster reduction action was adopted. These two documents serve to guide the actions of the Indian Ocean Commission on disaster risk reduction and to build resilience to climate change.

The Plan includes seven domains of intervention (identified as "priority actions") amongst which are the four priorities identified by the Sendai Framework for Action on Disaster Risk Reduction (2015-2030) - Understanding Disaster Risk - Strengthening Disaster Risk Governance to Manage Disaster Risk - Investing in Disaster Risk Reduction for Resilience - Improving Disaster Preparedness for Effective Response and - "Building Back Better" in Recovery. Three additional priorities for action have been added to the Action Plan to reflect the specific needs of the region, namely - Financial aspects and risk transfer mechanisms - Stakeholder participation, communication, and awareness-raising actions - Specific awareness-raising actions in favour of SIDS. The action plan takes into consideration the impact of Climate change hence the importance of mainstreaming climate change mitigation and adaptation measures.

The IOC in collaboration with the Commonwealth had developed a framework to foster interregional partnerships between islands of the WIO with the Pacific and the Caribbean. Through this framework, the Climate Resilient Island Partnership (CRIP), IOC had signed a partnership agreement with SPREP and the CCCCC to collaborate on matters related to climate change. This partnership needs to be revamped with the perspective of sustainability and expanded to other regional institutions in these two regions.

The Secretariat of the Indian Ocean Commission is implementing a few projects which aim at reducing the impact of climate-induced disasters: improving capacity for preparedness and response and enhancing early warning systems. These programmes do not address all the components of the Action Plan. While preparedness and response to climatic risks are being given much attention, not much attention is being given to other aspects such as investment and building back better are still in their infancy stage. There is a need to address issues related to urban plans, and infrastructure because incidents of flooding and landslides are gradually increasing. The capacity of the IOC to support its member States in addressing these issues is limited hence the need to build capacity in the region.

While some experts in hydrology and meteorology will be recruited as part of the technical assistance to support the implementation of projects, there is still a need to reinforce inhouse capacity on disaster risk reduction. A project officer with a background in DRR has been recruited to support the coordination and monitoring of an ongoing project entitled the "Resilience Building and Disaster Response Management in the Indian Ocean Region" there is still a need for a dedicated expert to strengthen the capacity of the Department of Environment and Climate Change of the IOC in matters related to DRR. IOC is working in close collaboration with UNDRR and PIROI for the implementation of the programme. Furthermore, the IOC is in the process of developing its new Strategic Action Plan for the next 10 years whereby resilience and disaster risk reduction constitute an important part.

Role Objectives (circa 200 words max.)

Please limit to three main objectives which clearly articulate what this deployment will achieve.

The general objective of the assignment is to strengthen the capacity of the IOC secretariat to support its member States to address urbanisation challenges and climatic hazards in line with the Sendai Framework, the SAMOA and the executive action plan 2023-2030 on early warning action for all.

Specific objectives are:

- i. To provide technical support and strategic advice to the IOC secretariat in addressing urban development challenges considering climate change.
- ii. Increased public and private investment in critical infrastructure that will withstand disasters and reduce the impact of climate change.
- iii. To support IOC in the preparation of the sub-regional report on the implementation of the Sendai Framework and SAMOA pathway on DRR.
- iv. To promote dialogue and exchange between the island States of Africa, the Caribbean, and the Pacific on disaster risk preparedness and response.

Expected results of the thematic expert

- A regional framework to increase investment in DRR and in critical infrastructure.
- A mechanism in place for continuous interregional SIDS dialogue and exchanges.
- Strategy to engage with regional organizations in the Caribbean and Pacific for cross fertilisation of experiences.
- A sub-regional status report on the implementation of the Sendai Framework considering the SAMOA pathway for IOC Member States.

Duties and Responsibilities (300 words max.)

Please describe how gender equality, disability inclusion, localisation and protection considerations will be incorporated into deployment duties or outcomes (Including any programme design or delivery).

The DRR Expert will work in close collaboration with the Officer in charge of DRR portfolio as designated by the Secretary General of the IOC. He/she will collaborate with IOC's ongoing projects and its partners to undertake the following tasks:

- Support the coordination of actions in DRR and provide strategic and technical advice to support decision making.
- Provide substantive input to develop and maintain partnerships with the islands of Africa, the Caribbean and the Pacific on disaster preparedness and response.
- Support the development of a resource mobilisation strategy for the Climate-resilient Island partnership.
- Support preparing regional status documents pertaining to the implementation of the Sendai framework to inform the African and Global DRR Platforms and the SAMOA pathway review.
- Support to integrate urban and human sociology aspects into risk management approaches for both decision-makers and planners.
- Support to develop guidelines for resilient infrastructures.
